"Céline Lydoire grows this wine at her family's 34-acre estate in Belvès, the vines growing in clay-limestone soils. Her old-vine fruit is often a gentle and delicate take on Castillon, and this 2016, while solidly built, is shy, with a persistent flavor undertow of black raspberries and dark chocolate.

The flavors keep giving in the end, showing the stamina to age. - J.G."
